

The brunch club

How do you brunch? Four best friends talk what to wear (and what to order) for the best meal of the day

If you need proof that our brunch obsession now rivals our love of Saturday nights out, just look at the number of new venues opening every week. And its more glamorous sister, the bottomless brunch, is becoming a legit weekend event. Strictly Come Drag Queen brunch, anyone? Party season is exhausting, and we're all for swapping late nights out for long, lazy catch-ups with friends over mimosas – so here's to wearing sequins, velvet and taffeta before midday.

Need further inspo? We spoke to four best friends and fully signed-up members of the brunch club about their bottomless brunching rituals – and styled them in our favourite partywear pieces from Very.

GEORGIA

Georgia Seago, deputy editor, Professional Beauty Group

WHY BRUNCH? You just get to hang out with the girls – I love having that sacred girl time.

WHAT'S YOUR ORDER? Shakshuka with halloumi and sujuk (Turkish chorizo), and a really spicy Bloody Mary as well.

GO-TO BRUNCH LOOK: A full-length bold print always helps me feel chic, and I love making the effort for brunch with my girls. I'll usually pair it with a red lip.

KEEKS

Keeks Reid, Cosmopolitan contributing beauty writer

WHY BRUNCH? You never know where the day's going to take you.

WHAT'S YOUR ORDER? Eggs Benedict and mimosas.

GO-TO BRUNCH LOOK: I love a floaty midi dress. It can be dressed up with heels but also hides food bloat, so I can still indulge with my food, Henry VIII style!

KEEKS Dress, £55; boots, £42, both V by Very. Jewellery, Keeks' own

TENISHIA

Tenishia McSweeney, PR executive

WHY BRUNCH? I quite like the fact that it's more chilled; you don't get so messy.

WHAT'S YOUR ORDER? I love a bit of sourdough with avocado, feta, chilli jam and a little crushed black pepper, plus a really good Bloody Mary.

GO-TO BRUNCH LOOK: My go-to for any occasion is always a jumpsuit. Dressed up with heels or down with flats, it makes me feel glam and put-together.

DEBBIE

Debbie Konu, physiotherapy service manager

WHY BRUNCH? You can have a proper catch-up and you've still got the rest of the day ahead of you. You can even go home for a nap afterwards if you want.

WHAT'S YOUR ORDER? I go all-in. I love avocado on sourdough, and then I follow that with a vegan burger and a nice glass of prosecco.

GO-TO BRUNCH LOOK: You can never be overdressed for bottomless brunch. I like a dress you can glam up with heels or wear more casually with a biker jacket and boots.

DEBBIE Jacket, £120; dress, £65; boots, £35, all V by Very. Jewellery, Debbie's own
